

The Future of Health Is Coming May 6!

You're invited! The All of Us Research Program opens May 6, 2018. Join us for an afternoon of community and conversation at one of our community events or online.

Save the Date at
Launch.JoinAllOfUs.org

From Beta to Launch

We've spent the last year improving the participant experience before we launch. Thank you to our partners, including our early participants, who have helped us bring All of Us to all of you.

See Who's Involved at JoinAllOfUs.org/who-is-involved

"We need volunteers from all ages, ethnicities, and walks of life across the U.S. to join our efforts."
—Eric Dishman, Director,
All of Us Research Program

Why Diverse Participation Matters

Researchers don't fully understand why certain health differences exist. Studying our individual differences will help researchers develop tailored treatments and care for people. All of Us is working to build a program that reflects the diversity of America, including many people who haven't taken part in medical research before.

Listen to the Interview at
SoundCloud.com/NIDDK

Who Can Join the
All of Us
Research
Program?

Your Questions Answered

When All of Us launches, participation will be open to adults ages 18 and up, from all backgrounds and regions of the country.

Explore the FAQs at
JoinAllOfUs.org/FAQ